

Both preparing and attending an interview is so very important and never easy as we all know and have experienced.

For this reason, we have listed examples of questions, although not always asked in this actual format. To reflect upon your answer in advance to some of these is very important, as they will assist you present your application in a confident manner, ensuring enjoyment of your interview appointment:

For example:

- What is it about this role that interests you
- What do you enjoy about your present role
- Why do you want to leave it
- Describe other roles that you have been considering recently
- How would you describe an ideal role
- What are your key areas of responsibility in your present or most recent role
- What contributes to a high level of frustration for you in the workplace
- Similarly, what motivates you to do a good job and enjoy your working day
- Looking back at earlier roles, which one have you enjoyed the most. Why?
- What have you achieved in your existing/or most recent role
- How would your colleagues/supervisor/manager describe you
- What has been your biggest challenge
- Tell us about an uncomfortable situation that occurred repeatedly in your existing/earlier workplace and how you attempted to resolve it
- Describe a colleague/supervisor/manager at your existing/previous employer that you got on the least well with and what you did about it
- Where do your strengths lie
- What has been the greatest difficulty you have had to address recently
- How do you like to be supervised on a daily basis? Why do you say that
- Looking back, which role has proved the most disappointing and frustrating. Why?
- To start a new role, it must help you produce your best results. What sort of role will ensure you enjoy your working day on both a personal and professional level
- Also, what type of Manager would you like to report to in order to achieve your goals
- What makes you think you are the best suited candidate for our role
- Have you visited our Company's website and what do you know about the responsibilities of this role we have available

'WE ALWAYS DO OUR VERY BEST'